Where I stand on the issues you believe are important

Airports – No matter which way the vote goes, city council has to act immediately to market our air services. I favor consolidation of passenger flights at the International Airport. And should that be the decision of Edmontonians, we have to immediately begin to create the ground transportation systems – fast and reliable shuttle bus service, motor coach linkages, arterial routes and, evenutally, LRT connections to the airport.

Business & Economic Development – Applying piecemeal, bandaid solutions to our economic problems won't work for the long haul. We need to build from strengths to create sustainable growth in our city. Edmonton has the most extensive and diversified knowledge based resources of any city in Canada. We need to leverage this by bringing together our business people and educational institutions to create new spin-off companies in advanced technologies and other high growth sectors.

Jobs – Reliance on the public payroll is impractical and undesirable. We need to get laid off federal and provincial employees back to work in the private sector. We need to encourage them to apply their skills and knowledge in establishing their own small businesses and home-based businesses. Edmonton needs a healthy and vibrant small business community that creates jobs for people right here, while marketing services around the world.

JIM TAYLOR FITS 4 Alderman

- ✔ Has lived in Ward 4 with his wife Barb for over 10 years.
- ✔ Currently a wills planner and estate administrator with Ogilvie and Company.
- ✔ A long distance and marathon runner, he knows the value of focus, commitment and setting goals.
- ✔ Familiar to many for the free will and estate seminars he presents to service clubs, charitable organizations and government agencies.

The Jim Taylor Aldermanic Campaign
11606 Jasper Avenue
Edmonton, AB T5K 0N2
Office: 944-5270

With 17 candidates running in Ward 4,

why should you vote for

JIM TAYLOR?

✔ Ward 4 residents want change.

Jim Taylor is a new face in city politics, a candidate with fresh ideas and a constructive way of getting things done.

– Helen Paull, former alderman

✔ Ward 4 residents want committed representation.

Jim Taylor has been working hard to earn our vote; he has knocked on more than 10,000 doors since he announced he was running early this year.

– John Mitchell, business owner

✔ Ward 4 residents want an alderman who can make a difference.

Jim Taylor combines business sense with community commitment to come up with positive solutions that are good for people.

– Jane Batty, business woman and 1992 aldermanic candidate

Hello.

I'm Jim Taylor and since February, I have talked with and listened to the concerns of residents in every part of Ward 4. As we enter the last days of this municipal election, one theme is clear. Ward 4 residents are ready for a change in how City Council operates and how they are represented in Ward 4. From what I am hearing at the doors of Ward 4 residents, I believe I can make a positive difference on both points. But I need your vote on October 16th to accomplish that.

With 17 candidates running for alderman, it's not enough to just vote for change. Please choose the best candidate to represent Ward 4.

On October 16th, vote for solid representation. Vote for Jim Taylor.